Bay Cove to give city $1.8 mil. service fee

BY TRACI BONNEY

Instead of a $2.50 per person boarding fee, Bay Cove Casino Resort in its first year of operation will pay Bay St. Louis a $1.8 million service fee.

The agreement setting the fee resulted from a 45-minute executive session May 12 between Mayor Edward Favre, the City Council, and Bay Cove officials Marlin Torguson and Al Kokesch. It was signed Tuesday by Torguson.

The $1.8 million is about 4 1/2 times the estimated $400,000 cost of providing additional services to accommodate all proposed dockside gambling in the city, according to Favre.

"Our original purpose was to cover any expenses the city would incur. I think this agreement more than adequately covers it," he said.

Favre added that he thinks the agreement will provide alternatives to taxation or tax increases.

He said it also satisfies the terms of a local and private bill passed by the state on the city's behalf; allows the city to more accurately keep track of revenues; guarantees funds as long as the casino is in operation; and prevents delays in the city's receiving the funds by eliminating the collection of money by the State Tax Commission.

He did add, though, that the agreement is in force only until June of 1993. "The next administration can take it up again then and renew it as they see

P&H air park policy upheld

BY TRACI BONNEY

The board of supervisors unanimously accepted Friday the decision of the Port and Harbor Commission concerning the use of Stennis Air Park by a hang gliding club.

The commission voted April 14 to limit runway access by vehicles at the airport to only official vehicles or those on airport business. However, the commission did not forward a copy of that resolution to the supervisors for their approval.

Herb Stieffel, spokesman for the hang gliding club that wanted to use the runway so the needed tow vehicles would have a stretch of clear level ground, had appealed to the supervisors earlier this month to let the club use the air park.

His appearance before the board came after he was notified that the Port and Harbor

Commission had made their decision because they said they were concerned about air traffic safety at the park.

At the time Stieffel spoke to the supervisors, they told him the commission and the board had joint jurisdiction over the air park, and neither group could enforce a decision made without the other group's approval. The board then took the matter under advisement and asked commission executive director Harold "Buz" Olsen to bring them a copy of the commission's resolution.

Olsen presented that resolution Friday, along with several others which were addressed individually. The supervisors voted 5-0 to approve it.

JAIL BIDS

After opening 10 bids for a new Hancock County jail addition which has been designed by architect Fred Wagner, the supervisors took the bids under advisement and turned them over to Wagner for his perusal.

Later in the meeting, he

Mardi Gras Casino recruiting workers

BY TRACI BONNEY

Mardi Gras Casino Corp. has formally started soliciting applications for employees at Bay Cove Casino Resort, according to company officials.

An ad with the complete list of jobs available will be in Sunday's edition of the Sea Coast Echo, assistant general manager Len Krick said Wednesday.

The company anticipates creating about 500 new permanent jobs, with most of the employees starting in August, in the casino, administrative offices, bar, food services, marketing, maintenance, security, surveillance and other areas.

Pre-employment drug tests will be required for all employees; some workers will be required to have a state casino work permit. Krick said the company already has received 800 applications.

Bay St. Louis purchases Peoples Federal building

BY TRACI BONNEY

The City of Bay St. Louis has a new City Hall annex, with a price tag of $121,000.

The City is purchasing the Peoples Federal Savings building on Court Street through a bid to the Resolution Trust Corp. Mayor Edward Favre said plans are to move his office, the City Council chambers, the utility department and other offices to the building sometime in the near future.

"Our intention is to relocate some or most of the city's operations to the new building. City utility customers will be able to pay their bills at the driver-through window, and we'll have a night drop box that will be pretty secure, as well as a parking lot behind the building," he said.

"The new building will satisfy the Americans with Disabilities Act requirements without the necessity of major renovations to City Hall."

Among ADA requirements is a mandate that easy access to government offices be provided for those who are wheelchair-bound or otherwise have difficulty negotiating stairs to upper stories. Currently, City Council meetings and several offices are on the second floor of City Hall. "Anything that needs to have public access, including the City Council meetings, will go there. We're not sure exactly what will go where yet, though."

The bank was seized by RTC in 1991, when the RTC claimed the bank was not in compliance with Office of Thrift Supervision regulations that require a certain portion of savings and loans' assets or property to be capital or money.

HHS fencing sold for $10

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Fencing no longer used at Hancock High School was sold for $10 Monday by school board members.

Board members said they had no objections to accepting the nominal bid considering the fencing was to be used to enclose a community recreational area across from Gulfview Elementary School.

Following state bidding laws, the school district advertised the fencing for sale. The only bid received was from Richard Patterson of Bayside Park.

The fencing includes 350 feet of six-foot fencing, 23 rails and posts and one gate.

Patterson commented Wednesday, he was donating the fencing to the Hancock County Park Commission.

He added, the commission was to construct a pavilion, a basketball court, volleyball court and a play area for small children.

Patterson stated, "The concrete slab has already been poured for the pavilion."

"The area is for the use of the children of Lakeshore, Ansley

Animal injuries result in fines

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Three men convicted of cruelty to animals were given fines between $250 to $525 this past January in a Hancock County court.

The men admitted to shooting two cows and one calf with arrows last November in Picayune, Andrew Elchos, Hancock County conservation officer for the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks reported. One of the cows died as a result of the arrows.

Elchos stated the arrows were traced to William Lumpkin of Picayune; and Mickey Williamson and Chuck Ladner, both addresses unavailable.

He added that the original charge of killing the one animal was amended to cruelty by Judge Lee Klein.

All three men were found guilty. Lumpkin was charged a $525 fine and sentenced to 30 days in jail. The jail time was suspended. Elchos commented.

Williamson was charged a $255 fine and Ladner, $250.

Wal-Mart recycling bins being used as dumpsters

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Bay St. Louis resident Renee Weaver is concerned Wal-Mart may remove its recycling bins, should trash and garbage continue to be left at the convenience site.

"People are leaving mattresses and garbage by the bins," Weaver reported. "Can't people see the bins are clearly marked for recyclables?"

"I don't understand why they are doing this. Don't people realize they are going to make Wal-Mart take away one of the last remaining places where we can bring recyclables?"

Gulf Coast Recycling closed their Waveland convenience site on April 30. There residents brought aluminum, glass, newspapers, corrugated cardboard, white ledger and computer paper, and automobile batteries.

Landrum's Curbside Recycling discontinued service in February. Landrum's picked up newspapers, all other papers, cans, glass, plastics and aluminum.

Cindy Landrum stated the business had the support of the community, with more people signing up for service every day. The problem, according to the Landrums, was securing financial backing to keep the operation going through the first year or two, until the business could begin to turn a profit.

Gulf Coast Recycling director Kay Hoffman stated, "The reason for closing the Waveland center was because the resale market had gone down and the expense of transporting the material to Biloxi became too costly."

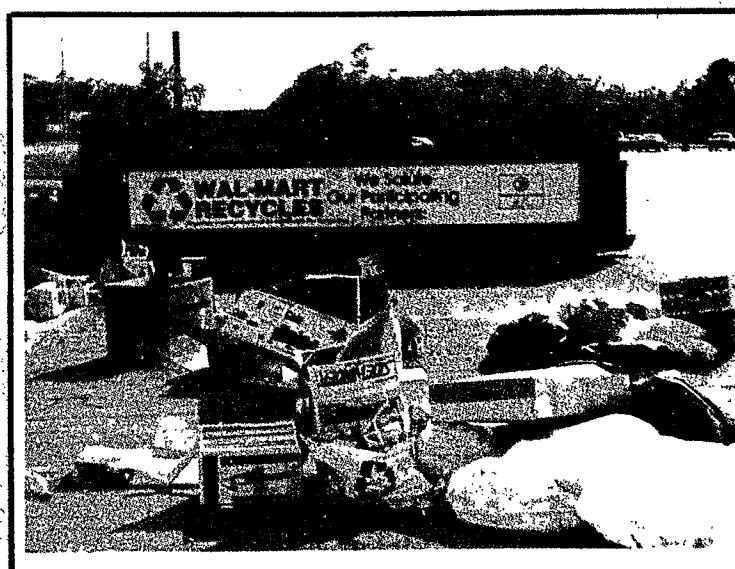

Southern All Metals on the Highway 90 service road takes all types of scrap metal, including automobiles and appliances. Aluminum and tin cans should be separated. Brass, stainless, copper, iron radiators and batteries are also accepted for recycling.

Wal-Mart store manager Jack Latil commented the Waveland store is spending one to two hours per day picking up garbage and trash left at the bins.

He added the store has been looking for an alternative location where the container could be placed and supervised.

"It cost Wal-Mart about $4,000 for the dumpster. The intent was through resale of the recyclable materials, the

Accidental electrocution kills Bay St. Louis man*A Staff Report

Darin Douglas Bilbo, 19, of Bay St. Louis died Sunday as a result of accidental electrocution.

According to Sheriff's Department Investigator Nathan Hoda, Bilbo was doing some welding on top of a boat on Pennsylvania Street in Shoreline Park. Other people present noticed at one point that his expression had changed and his body seemed tense.

"They discovered that the welding lead had apparently shorted out to him, and he was holding the metal on the boat," Hoda explained.

Deputy Corky Hoda and BMR officer Stanley Hamilton responded to the report. Bilbo was declared dead at the Hancock Medical Center.

Pictured are volunteer firemen from East Hancock Fire Protection District, extinguishing a woods fire along the Kiln-Waveland Cutoff Road and Catalina Street between 5 and 6 p.m. Tuesday. Chief Ken Jorgensen reported approximately 1-1/2 acres of land was burned. He added, "It appeared to have started close to Yazoo Street and spread towards Kiln-Waveland Road. "A year and a half ago, I drove around through different communities in the county, and I noticed each area had a playground for the local children.

"I brought up the idea of one for the children in the lower end of the county to a few people, and everyone said 'yes'.

it seems now it will be a reality."

Patterson explained, though children are often permitted use of Gulfview Elementary School's facilities, there are many times when the school is locked. The new area will be more accessible.

It will be located on property northeast of the Lower Bay Road and Lakeshore Drive intersection.

Utility rates reduced; street piece abandoned

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Bay St. Louis City Council unanimously voted to reduce utility rates Tuesday, but lost one vote in the abandonment of a portion of State Street.

The Council adopted Ordinance 360, which gives utility customers their third rate decrease in two years and amounts to a savings of about 7 1/2 percent for residential customers.

The new rates for residential customers are:

—Gas: $9 for up to the first 1,000 cubic feet; $7.50 per 1,000 cubic feet from 1,000 to 15,000; and $7 per thousand cubic feet for any amount over 15,000;

—Water: $5 for up to the first 3,000 gallons; 75 cents per 1,000 gallons for any amount over 3,000;

—Sewer: a $12 flat fee;

—Garbage: a $6.50 flat fee. Commercial rates are:

—Gas: $9 up to the first 1,000 cubic feet; $8.50 per 1,000 for up to 25,000; $8 per 1,000 from 25,000 to 50,000; $7 per 1,000 for more than 50,000;

—Water: $8 for up to 3,000 gallons; 75 cents per 1,000 after that;

—Sewer: $12 to 3,000 gallons; $1 per 1,000 from 3,000 to 300,000; 25 cents per 1,000 for more than that;

—Garbage: a flat $6.50 rate.

STATE STREET

The Council voted 4-1 to abandon an unused portion of State Street to Dock of the Bay owner Jerry Fisher so that he can may additions to his restaurant/lounge. The Council stipulated, however, that the mayor not sign the abandonment ordinance until Fisher signs an easement with the city allowing it access to a drain pipe beneath his building for construction and maintenance purposes.

Despite Fisher's willingness to sign the easement, and even to maintain the drain himself if necessary, Charles Scianna cast the dissenting vote, saying he doesn't believe the city should totally abandon its only current access to the drain pipe.

Fisher's plans for the area include additions to his kitchen that will allow him to offer fresh boiled seafood, and future retail outlets on property adjoining the abandoned area.

The portion of the street that was abandoned is adjacent to Dock of the Bay and never was opened for public use.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The football game of the year is scheduled for Saturday night at 7:30 at the J.D. McCullough Stadium in Bay St. Louis.

It will be a game between the alumni of Bay High and St. Stanislaus.

'Grandfather' Matt Karl, a Bay High class of 1968 graduate, appears to have the honors as the grandfather of the contest.

Several players will be from more recent years on both the Tiger and Rock-A-Chaw squads to make the contest more interesting.

What is the game all about? I am told it will be a fund-raising event for the booster clubs of each school in addition to the United Way of Hancock County.

I know one thing is for sure, both squads have been taking the challenge very serious and bragging about scoring many points.

Some should realize there will be several former defensive stars to keep them in check on both teams.

I think there have even pulled out of 'retirement' several local high school football officials to call the game.

I am told there may even be an investigator and a doctor on the field at times.

Half time will be special too, because the Bay-Waveland Jaycees will conduct a punt, pass and kick contest for youths ages 9-12.

Admission to the game is $2 for adults and $1 for students.

I am hoping that Tiger Stadium will be overflowing with spectators, as everyone will come out and cheer for their favorite 'gladiator.'

Hungry for some good seafood? The annual three-day St. Paul's Parish Seafood Festival will be celebrated Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Pass Christian.

There will be all types of seafood for festival goers in addition to a lot of other food favorites.

Looking for arts and crafts? There will be many booths with vendors showing their special wares.

Entertainment will be of a wide variety, from popular local bands to gymnastic exhibitions, show bands, dancers, martial arts and vocal groups.

Members of St. Paul's Parish have been busy preparing for the annual event for many months which is held at the Memorial Park just above the beach.

I hope to see you at the seafood festival.

This will be another election year for state positions along with the general election in November.

We will be once again electing state senators and state representatives, even though we just did that last year, because of redistricting direction from the Justice Department.

The state leaders did not receive approval last year on redistricting by the Justice Department.

The House's plan this year was accepted by the Justice Department, while a part of Senate's was rejected and had to be revised.

The matter was given approval by a three-judge panel, and the primaries will be held on August 3 with runoffs set for August 25.

Qualifying deadlines are set for June 5. Hancock County now stands a chance of electing two House of Representatives with the new redistricting.

I would like to suggest to those who may be new to the area, to register to vote if you haven't done so already. Eighteen-year-olds can all vote upon proper registration.

Registrations can be done at the Hancock County Chancery Clerk's office or at the registrar's office in the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland. The offices are open Monday through Fridays.

They will be closed this Monday because of Memorial Day.

Chamber after hours

Marlin F. Torguson, left, president of Mardi Gras Casino Corporation, chats with Dr. David Tuminello DDS, of Bay St. Louis, at the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce After Hours last week at Bay Cove. Torguson reported Bay Cove Casino Resort will be the best gaming destination on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Basil Kennedy, chamber president, praised Torguson's company for placing emphasis on hiring South Mississippi residents. Over 250 people attended the After Hours which included food and beverages. ### Oil and gas severance to go for education

School children yet unborn in Mississippi some day may well give thanks for enjoying a better quality education to a bill enacted without fanfare by the just-ended 1992 Legislature.

The measure requires that beginning next year, in gradual amounts for the next 10 years, the oil and gas severance taxes received by the state will be dedicated to the Education Trust Fund created by a 1986 constitutional amendment.

By fiscal year 2003 and forever thereafter, all of the state's part of tax revenue from the production of oil and natural gas will be earmarked for the Education Trust fund by the legislation.

Counties wherein oil and gas is produced will still receive about one-third of the severance taxes as they do under existing laws.

Dedication of oil and gas severance taxes to the Education Trust Fund is a visionary concept that Rep. Eric Clark of Taylorsville has been trying to enact into law since 1985. This year, after eight failed attempts, he won, amazingly, unanimous support for the bill from both the House and the Senate.

The idea of dedicating a tax source to education or any other purpose had been considered anathema by key legislative fiscal leaders for years. Significantly, Clark's bill had passed the House four times before but was blocked in the Senate by former Finance Chairman Bob Montgomery because he was against earmarking taxes.

Oil and gas severance taxes this year are expected to yield around $35 million to the state treasury, substantially less than the $95 million plus they brought in during the boom years of 1980-91.

Clark's bill would use $35 million as the starting base, and provide for all severance taxes in excess of that to go into the trust fund commencing in FY 1994. Then each year afterwards the amount to the trust fund would be increased at about $5 million per year until all the tax would be dedicated in FY 2003.

If oil and gas production in Mississippi rises, or the prices paid for crude oil, or natural gas, (now less than $2 per 1,000 cu. ft. as compared to $8 in 1980) ever reached their 1980 level, the Education Trust Fund would be the beneficiary.

Conceivably, Clark says, by the early part of next century there could be several billion dollars in the trust fund.

Under terms of the 1986 constitutional amendment, which Clark co-sponsored, only the interest from the trust fund may be spent by the Legislature for elementary, secondary and vocational-technical education.

"The argument I have been making is that God put this oil and natural gas here, and we have no right to use all the benefits of it in our generation. We need to see that these benefits are passed on for our children and grandchildren," the Smith County lawmaker declared.

Oil and gas are non-renewable resources, he said, "and after it is gone, it's gone." Clark added: "We have seen so many missed opportunities in the past. This is one time we didn't make that mistake."

Initially when the Education Trust Fund was established, the only revenues dedicated to it were royalties and severance taxes from oil and gas or other minerals produced on state-owned land. So far, the fund has only accumulated around $20 million.

Dedication of severance taxes from all oil and gas production in the state will provide a major, dependable source of revenue for public education, Clark said. "It is a very exciting prospect," he added.

The state severance tax levied on the well-head selling price for both oil and natural gas has remained at 6 percent ever since 1944, despite several efforts in years past to increase it.

Gov. William Winter mounted a monumental campaign in 1981 and 1982 to increase the severance tax by two percent in order to help pay for his education reforms built around launching Mississippi's first free public kindergarten program.

It's a matter of political history, however, that a highly-financed lobby mobilized by the oil and gas industry stymied Winter's move in the Legislature. One of the key legislative allies of the industry was then-House Speaker Buddie Newman, who had been a longtime retainer of a gas transmission company.

While Winter a decade ago was never able to tap oil and gas producers to start kindergartens, at last school children will benefit from these valuable natural resources.

State troopers prepare for speeding motorists

The Mississippi Highway Patrol will soon introduce speeders to a new laser speed detection device that makes radar detectors ineffective.

"We are excited about finally having the equipment to identify the 'professional' speeder," said Lt. Col. Billie T. Hughes, chief of the Highway Patrol's uniformed division, "the driver who uses a radar detector to circumvent the law."

Use of the new laser speed detection device begins during the upcoming three-day Memorial Holiday weekend.

A list of the patrol's activities during the 78-hour holiday period includes the following which are not in order of priority: checking for expired driver's license, license plate decals and inspection stickers; removing drunken and drugged drivers from the highways; citing speed law violators and drivers transporting children under the age of two years that are not in a child restraint seat; and reminding motorists that all front seat passengers should use safety belts.

"The laser speed detection device is one of the most accurate and reliable speed enforcement tools available to law enforcement today. The detection gun can target one specific vehicle out of a group of vehicles because of its narrow beam width. The officer sights the target vehicle through a scope much like that on a rifle and pulls the trigger. In 0.3 seconds, the vehicle's speed is displayed on a digital readout," Hughes said. A Federal Speed Enforcement Grant purchased the devices for the agency.

"Many motorists forget that all highways in Mississippi do not have a 65 mph speed limit," said Hughes. "Only 611 miles of rural sections of the interstates have a 65 mph speed limit, other roads have a posted speed limit of 55 or less. Use of the laser speed detection devices should encourage more motorists to pay attention to the posted speed limits."

Hughes said federal grant funds will also be used to pay overtime for more than 50 extra troopers to work 400 hours on what would ordinarily be their days off.

The holiday begins at 6 p.m. Friday, May 22, and ends at midnight Monday, May 25, and ends at midnight Monday, May 25. State troopers issued 2,276 speeding citations and made 173 DUI arrests (driving under the influence of alcohol or drugs) during the 1991 holiday.

Hughes said five people were killed in five separate motor vehicle crashes last year during Memorial Day weekend. He said the cost of carelessness on the highway can be measured in lost lives, human suffering and money.

Annual medical costs for people hospitalized because of highway crash injuries totals more than $6 billion, according to the U.S. Department of Transportation.

Hughes said motorists can take a big step toward preventing injuries by buckling their safety belts.

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

House Armed Services authorizes Aegis Destroyers

The House Armed Services Committee has authorized the building of four Aegis Destroyers, announced U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor.

"I am extremely pleased to see that the committee realizes the importance of these ships," Taylor said. "The Aegis Destroyer will play an indispensable role in our nation's future defense."

The Congressman, a member of the Committee, said he expects Ingalls Shipbuilding to build at least two of the four ships.

"Ingalls is the premier builder of Aegis Destroyers," Taylor said. "I don't see any reason why Ingalls and its workers shouldn't get at least two of those ships. Their past record is one of excellence, and I am confident they will continue this tradition."

The package must go before the full House for authorization and funding must also be approved for the four ships. Taylor said he is confident that the money will be appropriated.

"In a time of reduced defense spending, the Aegis Destroyer is an investment," Taylor said. "Both Congress and the Navy realize that these are exceptional ships."

The measure should be considered by the House in the next few weeks. If appropriated, contracts would be awarded in 1993.

STREET TALK

Why do you think H. Ross Perot is leading the pack in poll results when he is not even a candidate at this time?

"I think the people are ready for serious changes and the way he presents himself, I think the people feel he could possibly, if elected, prove results."

"Bush isn't doing anything. I think Perot would help the middle-class people better than Bush. He has been there."

"I guess the people figure he really doesn't need the money and wants to do good for the country."

Delores Hotard

"From the few interviews I have seen, he appears to be more understanding of the common person compared to the typical politician. He is a self-made millionaire so he knows what it's like for the struggle of the working-class person."

Sue Calhoun
Waveland

"I personally think the people are so discouraged with what we have had for the past 12 years and they are afraid of what is being offered, that they are scared. I think if Perot would win, there would be some changes. A lot of the giveaway programs would be changed. I also think he would help the people through more of the old type CCC and WPA programs."

Jessie Bowden
Johnson City, Texas

"People are tired of Bush, that's it. People are ready for a change; something has to be done."

Tina Jeanfreau
Clermont Harbor

"Because he is a hell of a lot better than Bush or Reagan. They have gotten this country into a bigger mess since Carter. Perot is an independent which is better still. I'd like to see the Democratic and Republican parties dismantled."

W.J. Wright
Shoreline Park

"I think people are sort of tired of politicians and political parties. They want a change; someone who isn't involved for profit reasons, maybe someone who will help on social levels. Everything is done for money instead of for the benefit of the people."

As a team, BHS placed seventh during the May 8 event in Jackson.

Gaudin explained, "This means were are the seventh best 3A track team out of 56 teams in the state. I really feel this is a good conclusion to the season.

Other track members participating were:

—Sophomore Kendal Laneaux placed second in the 100-meter dash and fifth in the 200-meter dash;

—Sophomore Miguel Smith placed second in the shot put;

—Freshman Leroy Hawkins placed eighth in the high jump;

—and Tiger relay team, Floyd Lewis (junior), Dwayne Antoine (sophomore), Exavier Lewis (freshman), Laneaux and alternates Cedric Clayborn (sophomore) and Hawkins placed seventh;

BHS girls' track team member, freshman Taaya Dawson took sixth place in both the discus and shot put.

Pass resident addresses PRC vo-tech graduates

Graduation ceremonies for Pearl River Community College vocational-technical students brought approximately 3,000 guests to the M. R. White Coliseum Friday.

Guest speaker included auto mechanics major Lawrence LaFontaine and electronics major Lourie Barnett.

LaFontaine, of Pass Christian, enrolled at Pearl River following a layoff from the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant. "I was employed there for four years. Once they started closing the ammunition plant, I was laid off and began looking into different colleges for an automotive program that offered a two-year degree which taught computer diagnostics, front-end alignment and engine rebuilding," LaFontaine said. "Pearl River Community College was the only institution in the state that offered what I wanted," he said.

LaFontaine has a job waiting at Bert Allen Toyota in Gulfport where he will continue his training in dealer school.

Barnett, of Picayune, is a married mother of three children. After having dropped out of school in the ninth grade, she earned a GED and decided to enroll at Pearl River to better her family's tough financial condition.

"The Single Parent/Displaced Homemakers program assisted me to the point that I could stand before you tonight," she said. "They believed in me when I did not have the courage or self esteem to believe in myself."

Barnett also has a job waiting for her. She will join the U.S. Geological Survey at NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center where she worked as part of the Stay in School Program.

Logtown School memories

Reunion of former students draws 200 in Pearlington

BY T. H. (DOC) TOUPS

The evening I began writing this story, I heard the news that Lawrence Welk had passed away. In its own way, this seemed fitting.

I remember spending evenings with my departed Grandmother when I was a child. She would turn the Welk show on, and I would squirm in boyish misery—desperately hoping for cartoons or a war movie.

Those memories are surprisingly fresh after all these years, but of course, that reality will never be seen again.

On Saturday, a group of folks who might loosely be described as members of the "Lawrence Welk generation," met in Pearlington to rekindle memories of their own. Students of the old Logtown School met at Charles B. Murphy Elementary School for a reunion.

Mrs. Gladys Ruffin Barber (Class of '39) and Mr. Louis Dawsey (Class of '40) were two of the main organizers of the event. They shared some of their own reminiscences: "Some students went barefooted, some didn't," said Dawsey. I couldn't help but wonder how many of today's Reebok and Nike-wearing students could really understand the implications of this.

Mrs. Barber chuckled and explained that one time, "We found a turtle and put it under the teacher's desk. She didn't like it too well."

Some 200 former students attended the reunion, and the tables were loaded with homemade delicacies. The Charles B. Murphy auditorium was replete with mementos of the era: Sea Coast Echo clippings, the original building permit from the old school building, dated 1907, and a 1916 Logtown telephone directory were only a few of the local artifacts displayed.

The directory had a total of 64 entries, though 15 of these belonged to the H. Weston Lumber Company, a major employer of the time.

Sisters Mrs. Helen Ruffin Lee and Mrs. Hazel Ruffin Necaise, who attended the school in the '30s, traded memories and met friends they hadn't seen in years. Helen, who attended with her husband of 56 years, Lige Lee, quipped, "We've seen many of our friends, but wouldn't recognize them without name-tags!"

The original Logtown School closed in 1948. A new school was constructed, but the advent of NASA's Mississippi Test Facility spelled the end of the Logtown community and its school in 1963. On September 30 of that year, Logtown-Postmistress Lollie B. Wright, a Logtown School graduate, handled routine mail, delivered 500 copies of The Sea Coast Echo and closed shop forever.

Plans are already underway for another reunion next year. Former students may contact Mrs. Barber at 533-7321 or Mr. Dawsey at 798-4057.

Bridge of time

Mrs. Octavia Ruffin Necaise (Class of 1926), 86, was one of three members of her class present at Saturday's reunion. She watches a dancing troupe perform numbers popular in her day.

A Tribute to Logtown School 1907 — 1948

Oh Little Country Schoolhouse if only you could talk,
About the little children skipping happily up the walk.
I know you saw the struggle of learning ABC's,
And the little minds working adding 2's and 3's.
Was your heart breaking, when times were really bad?
And patched and faded clothing was all the children had.
You saw them through the Depression and then there was the war.

Your young girls stayed at home and prayed, your boys they traveled far.

After the war had ended, they said your time had come,
And a big new school was built to replace the old wooden one.

But Little Country Schoolhouse you did your job real well,
For looking at your former students, anyone can tell,
That the doctors, teachers, ministers and everyday people too,

Can look back with pride Old Schoolhouse and know they owe a lot to you.

Renewing old friendships

"100 Years of Service"

Thousands of hippies converge on San Francisco during the "Summer of Love," as the Vietnam war continues to escalate.

The Arab/Israeli six-day war is fought and Red China explodes its first hydrogen bomb.

Astronauts Col. Virgil Grissom, Col. Edward White III and Lt. Cmdr. Roger Chaffee are killed during a simulated Apollo launch.

Meanwhile, in Bay St. Louis . . .

"The quick look data looks good." These were the findings of Mississippi Test Facility personnel after scanning tapes of performance obtained during last Friday's full duration acceptance firing of the S-11 Saturn V-Apollo second phase moon shot booster rocket at Mississippi Test Facility. If the data proves successful the component will be shipped out on Feb. 5 via river barge to Michoud. There it will be off-loaded and put on board a sea going barge for passage to Cape Kennedy. The component is scheduled to become part of the first Saturn V vehicle whose launch date is anticipated to be in the second quarter of this year.
